

ABSTRACT

The present invention in a preferred form is a novel composition of matter and a method of use, which includes at least a polyaluminum compound in an aqueous solution for use as a coagulant and/or flocculant. The composition of matter additionally includes magnesium and/or calcium and a water-soluble polymeric flocculant.